Dear Friends,

*P*lease accept my personal thanks to each of you—our generous donors and corporate and foundation partners—for contributing to enhancing excellence at Washington State University during fiscal year 2008–2009.

Last year was challenging for all of us, particularly so for higher education in the state of Washington. As difficult as the recent economic downturn has been, I am confident that WSU is emerging stronger than ever before. This is due to the expertise of our faculty, the enthusiasm of our students, the dedication of our staff, and, of course, the tremendous support of our alumni and friends.

Through your generosity, you give deserving students the opportunity to receive a quality education at WSU. You empower our talented faculty to pursue solutions to some of the world's most pressing issues. You help to improve the quality of life for people in our state, nation, and world.

Philanthropic gifts from our many alumni, friends, and corporate and foundation partners are increasingly important as WSU advances into the new decade. With your on-going generous support of our students, faculty, and research, and our academic, outreach, and athletics programs, we will be in a much stronger position to realize the tremendous potential of Washington State University.

Once again, thank you.

Sincerely,

Elson S. Floyd, Ph.D.
President, Washington State University

Dear Supporters of Washington State University,

*O*n behalf of the students, faculty, and staff of Washington State University and of the Washington State University Foundation, we express our deepest gratitude to our dedicated supporters. With more than $106 million in fund-raising activity during fiscal year 2008–2009, you demonstrated your dedication to continued excellence at WSU. This remarkable commitment and tremendous support from more than 62,000 donors enabled the WSU Foundation to surpass $100 million in annual fund-raising activity for just the second time in its 35-year history. WSU's ability to provide a quality educational experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels and to enable cutting-edge research at a public land-grant research institution is made possible in large part by support from donors like you. Thank you for your exceptional leadership, commitment, and for your continuing support in the years to come.

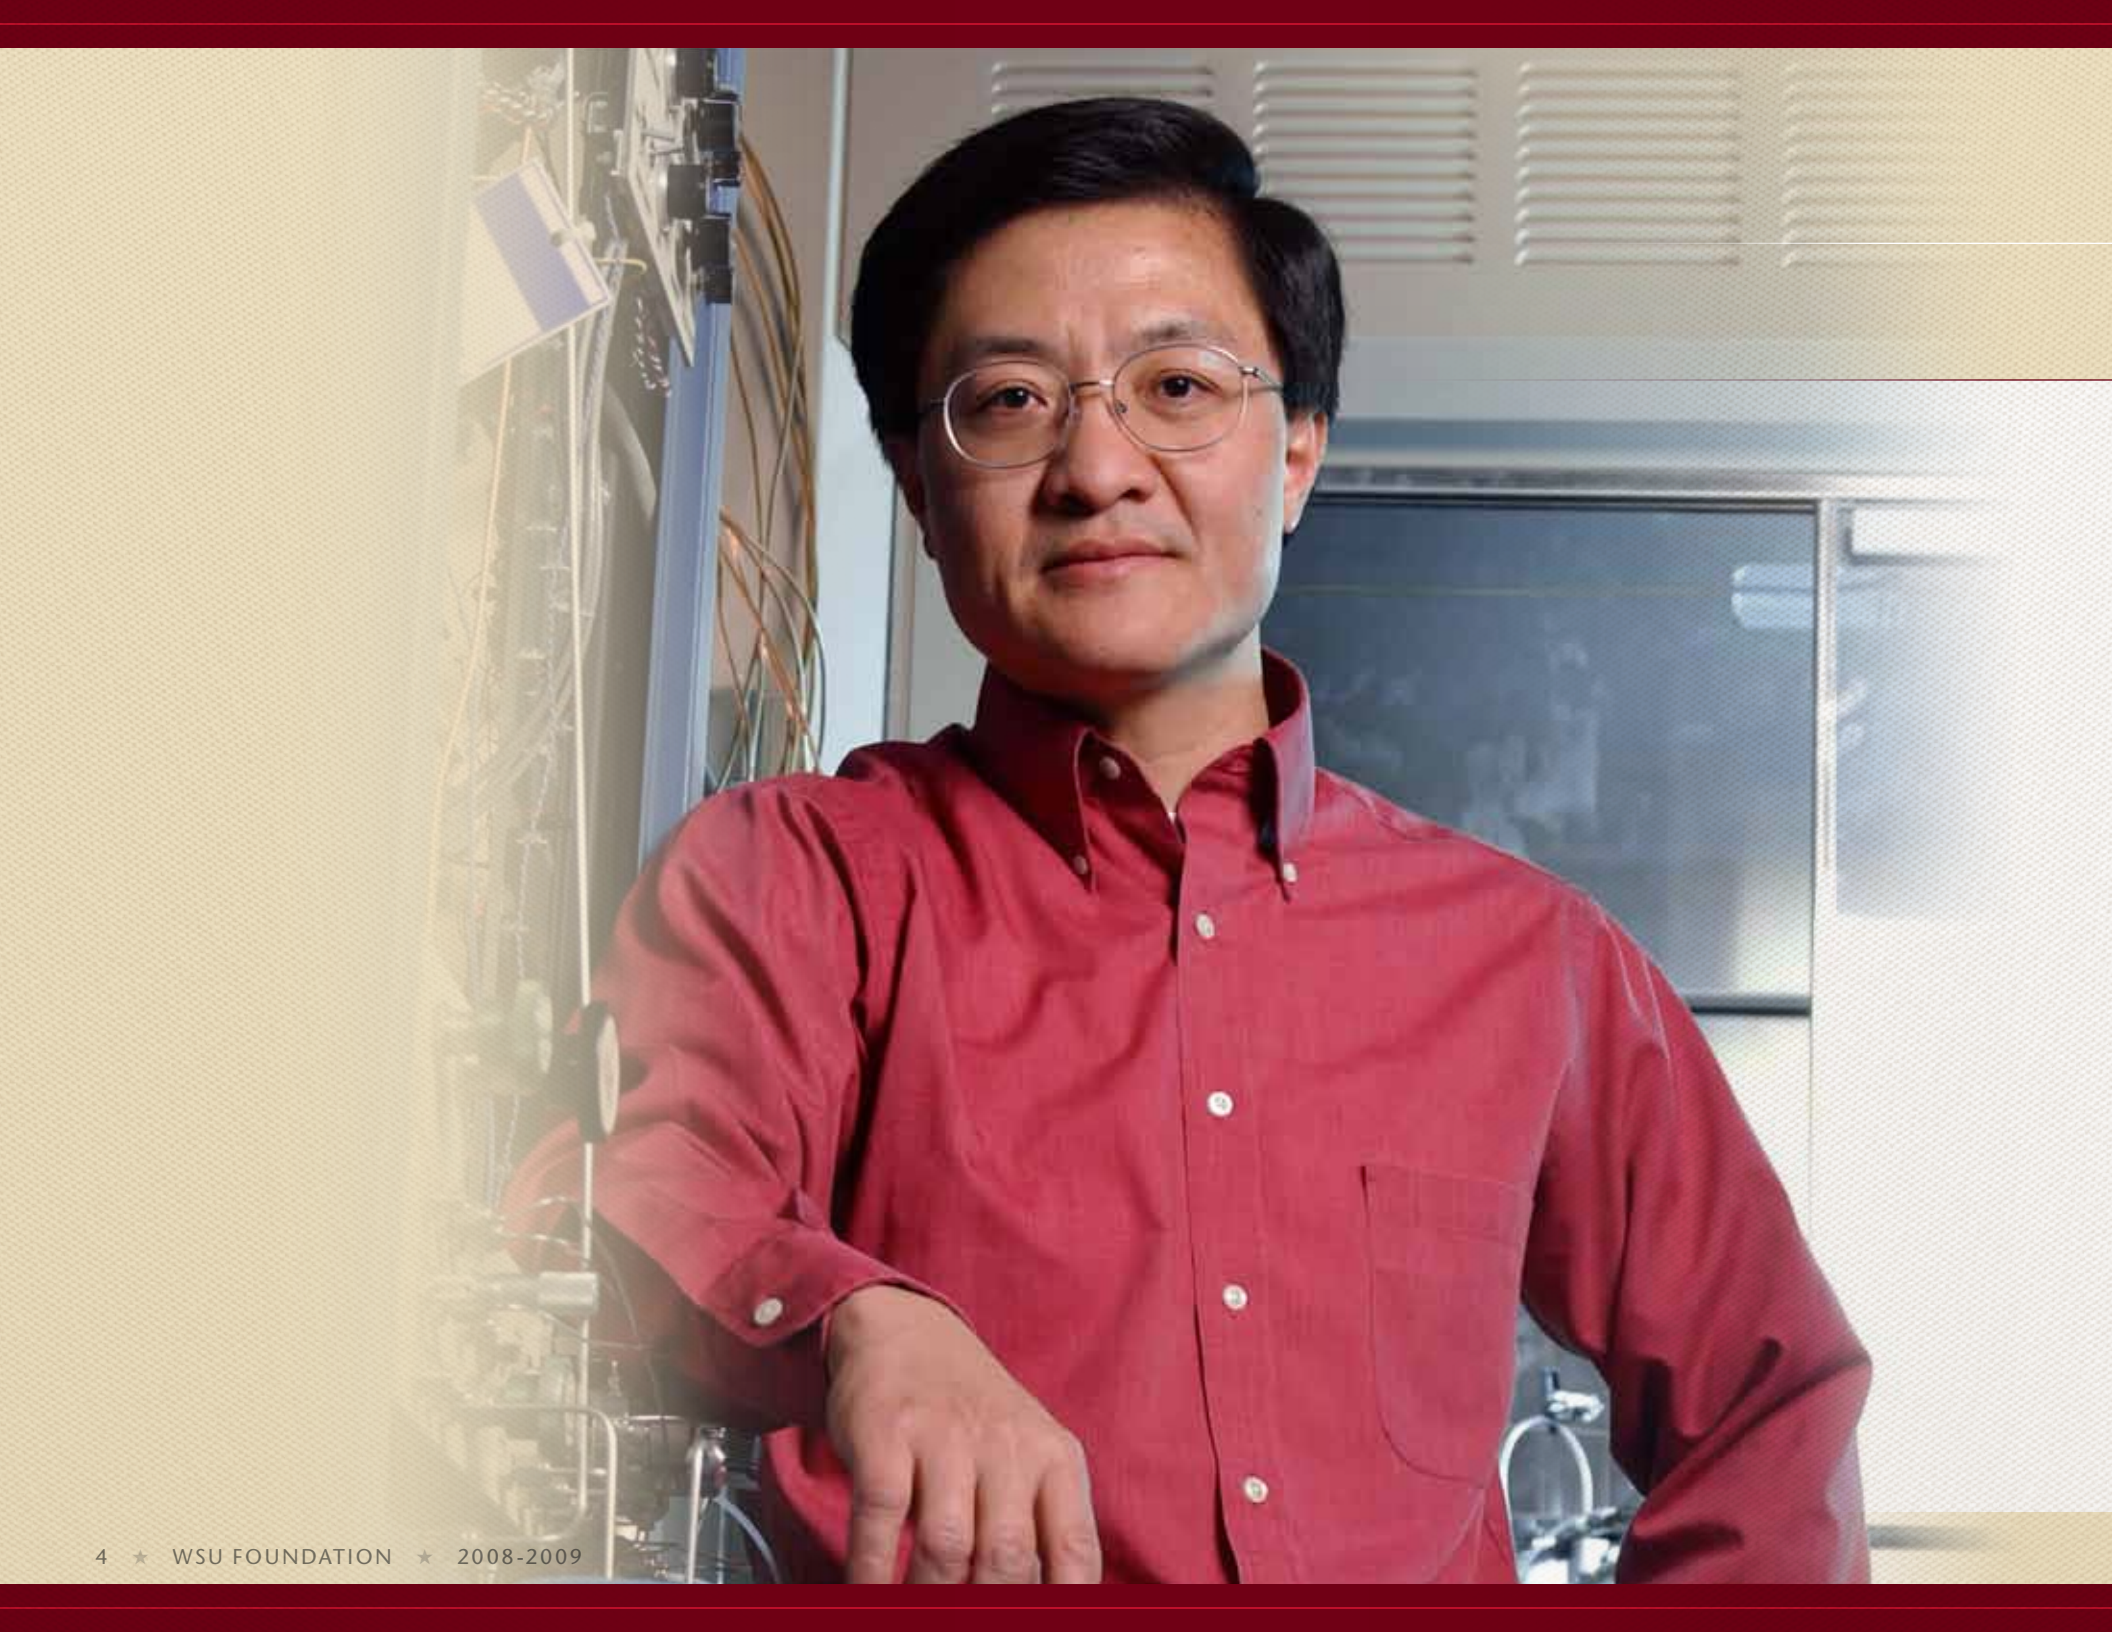

Sincerely,

Excellence in Solutions for Tomorrow

*W*hat does it take for a university to set the standard? It must support the finest programs, leading faculty, and top-notch students.

With their landmark $17.5 million gift, Gene and Linda Voiland are ensuring that the School of Chemical Engineering and Bioengineering is able to set the standard—by means of attracting the strongest faculty, developing robust research programs, and providing the best possible training to the next generation of engineers.

As their bold vision becomes a reality, the Voilands watch as the school, now named for them, readies to meet the nation's energy challenges. "Satisfactory, renewable fuels technology does not currently exist, so we must invest to ensure that this research happens," says Gene Voiland. Researchers in the school are conducting some of the nation's most progressive energy research, positioning the program to serve as a vanguard institution for clean energy innovations.

The recent hiring of the first Voiland Distinguished Professor, Yong Wang, is also attracting attention from industry leaders throughout the world.

"Were it not for the Voilands' generous commitment, we would not have someone of Dr. Wang's caliber to lead WSU in the development of creative solutions to the world's energy needs."

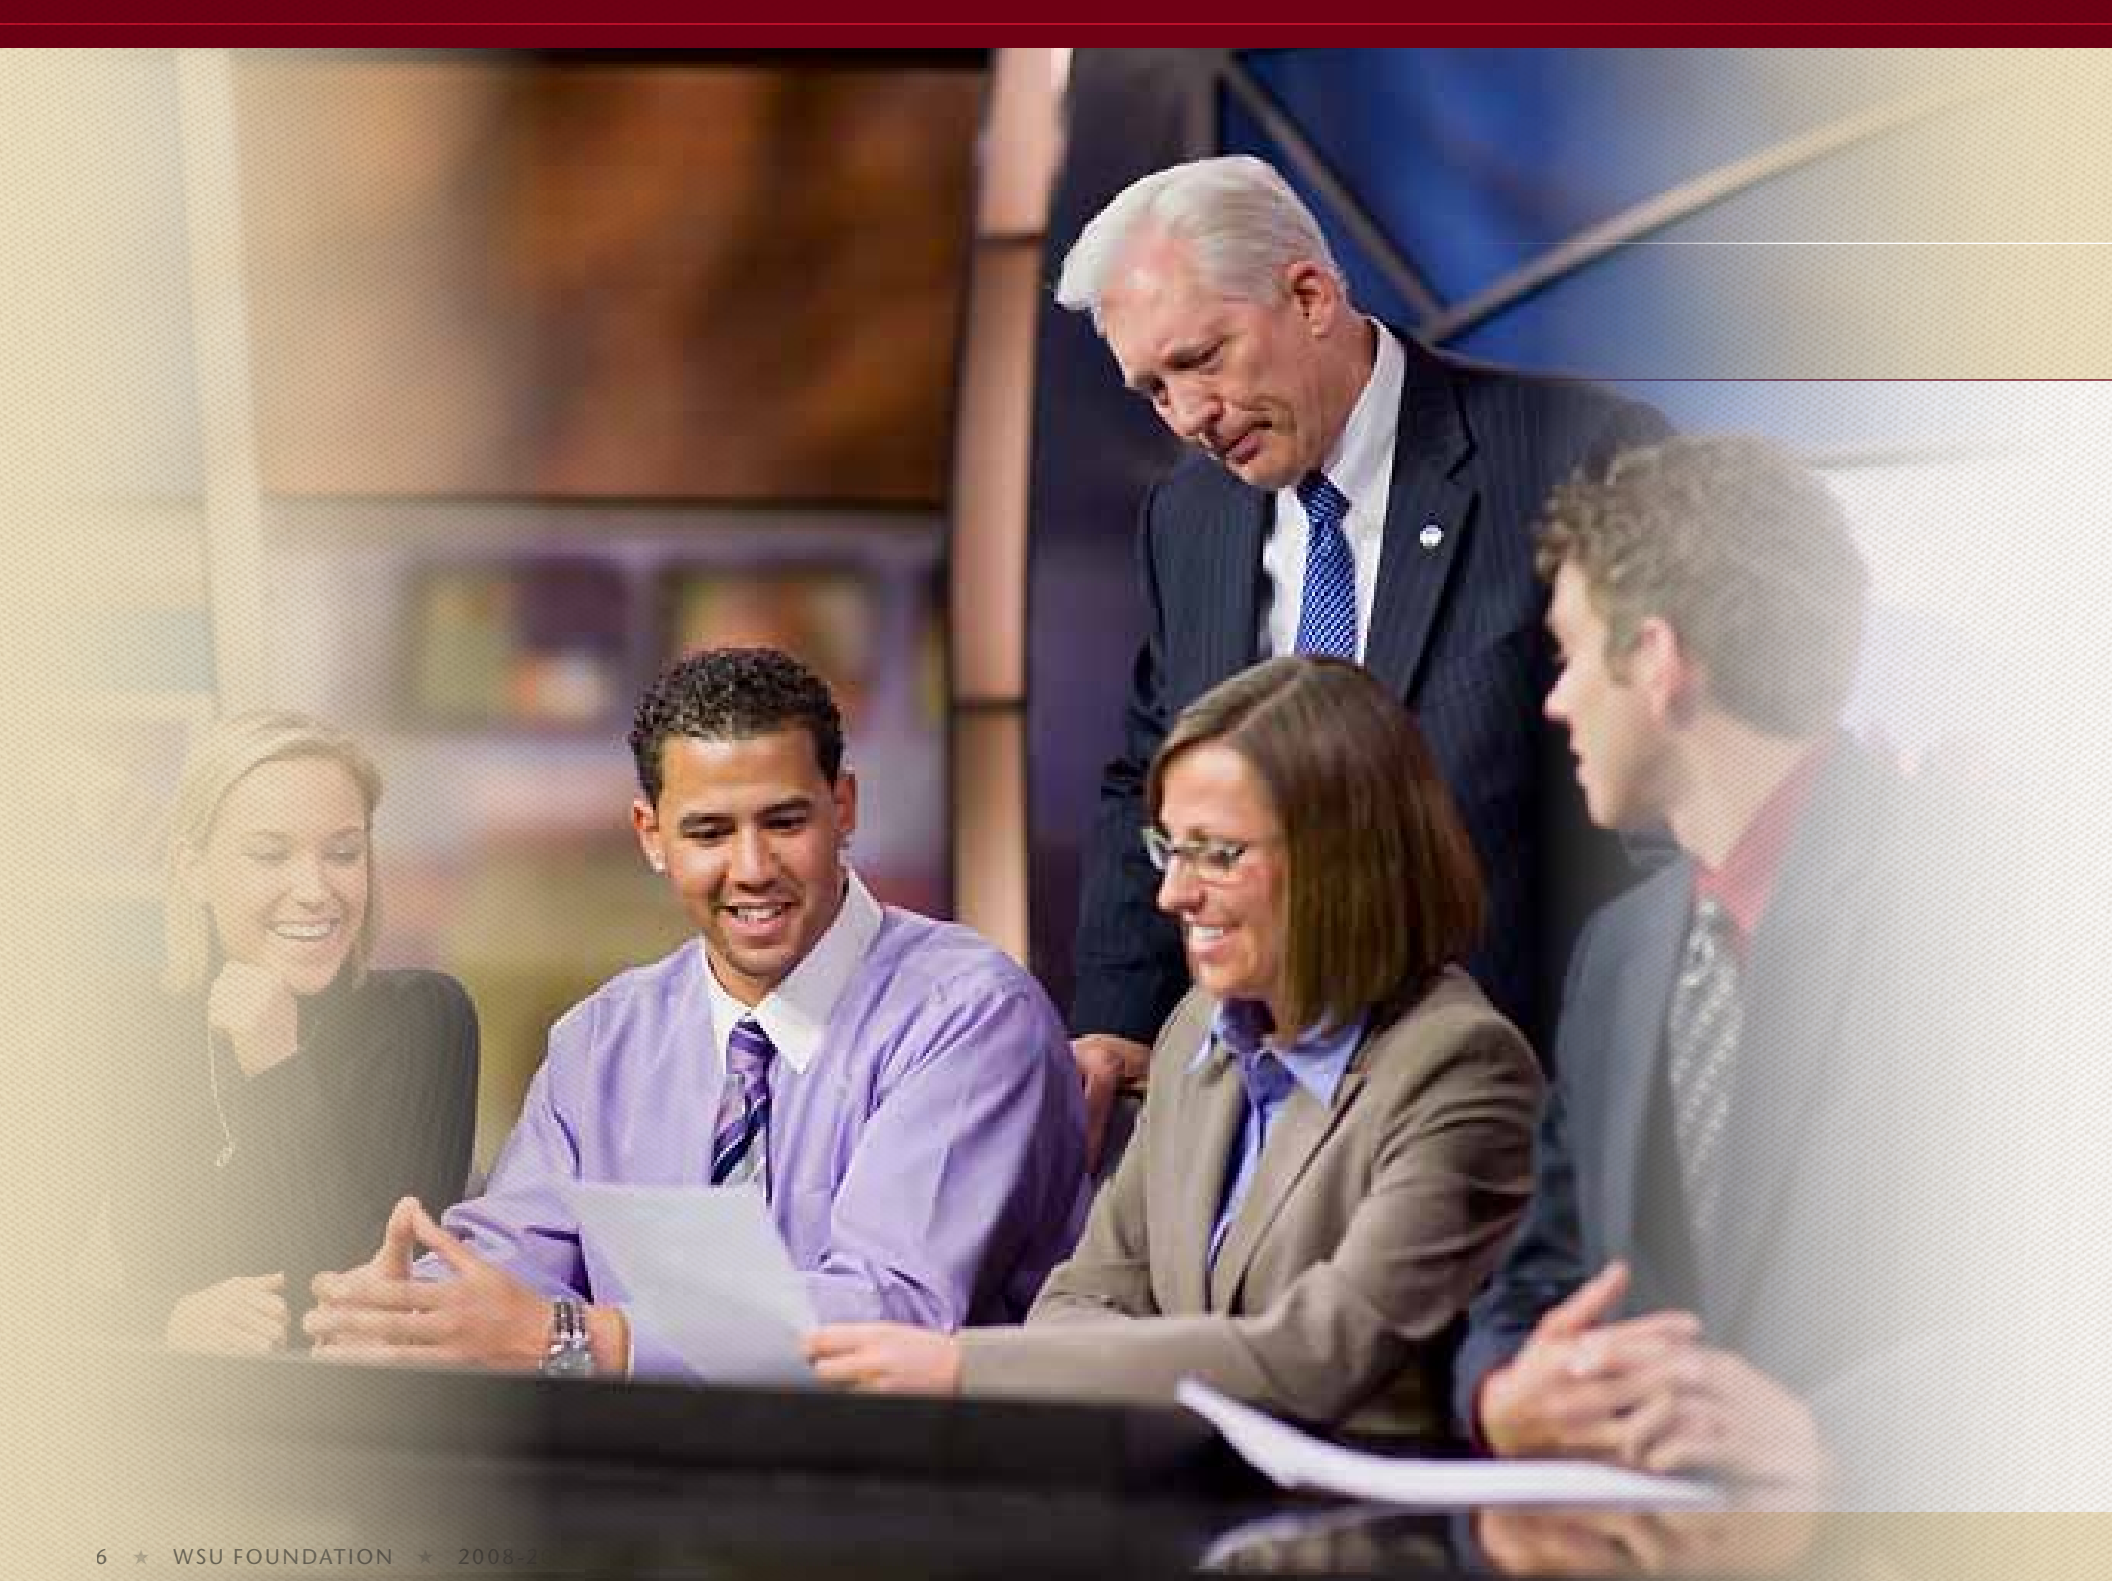

—Dr. James Petersen, director, Gene and Linda Voiland School of Chemical Engineering and Bioengineering

"Research to develop clean technologies and to address the daunting and exciting energy challenges of the twenty-first century is a top priority, and Dr. Wang is recognized as a cutting-edge innovator in this area," says Candis Claiborn, dean of the College of Engineering and Architecture.

Wang's leadership will advance the development of new catalysts for transformational energy systems, promising collaborations across multiple research platforms and boosting the quality of instruction available to undergraduate and graduate students. His research uniquely engages fundamental and applied methodologies in clean energy conversion and explores the structure and function of transition metal oxide and bimetallic catalysts.

"Gene and Linda care deeply about the academic programs at WSU," says James Petersen, director and professor at the school.

"Their support is enabling the type of growth that boosts our programs to national and international prominence in ways that strengthen the student experience."

Excellence in

Innovative Communication

*I*n fiscal year 2009, Washington State University elevated one of its signature strengths from school to college status—a change that reflects the University’s commitment to meeting the escalating international demand for professionally educated and responsible communicators. With its new status, the Edward R. Murrow College of Communication, under the leadership of its founding dean, Lawrence Pintak, is building upon Murrow’s legacy of ethics, responsibility, and professionalism to position the college as a partner and leader for the industries it serves.

“The ability to anticipate industry trends and adjust to the changing communication landscape is critical,” says Dr. Pintak. “If we are not constantly adapting to new realities, we are not doing our job.”

With the transition from school to college comes the increased ability of the Murrow College to educate a digitally and culturally literate workforce for tomorrow. As a result, the college has enhanced capacity to prepare graduates for the changing media landscape, to develop research that will improve the health and well-being of our society, and to help the communication industries navigate looming technological and economic hurdles.

“We invite donors, alumni, and industry professionals to partner with us to leverage the capacity of the new Murrow College of Communication to advance our most famous graduate’s principles of courage, integrity, innovation, and professional excellence,” says Dean Pintak.

Moving into the future, generous private support and the continued commitment of the University’s leadership will successfully transform the college’s digital infrastructure, expand its health communication program to global prominence, and inject a global worldview across the college through additional world-class faculty and state-of-the-art equipment. These steps will ensure the college’s ability to offer an adaptive academic program prepared to address future concerns in the communication field, cementing the college’s role as a vital resource for the many industries it serves.

“If we are not constantly adapting to new realities, we are not doing our job.”

—Dr. Lawrence Pintak

Excellence in Empowering Lives

*A*s a child, Senia Farias remembers being told she could never attend college—by teachers, family, and friends. Then, during her junior year at Royal City High School, she visited Washington State University and became determined to make it happen.

“I knew I couldn’t pay for college. But I wanted something better for my life and to set a good example for my four younger siblings,” Senia says. “I fell in love with WSU—it’s big enough for me to grow but small enough that there is a sense of community. I decided to keep dreaming and to work as hard as I could.”

Senia nurtured her dream to become the first person in her family not only to graduate from high school but also to attend college. At Royal City, she focused on her studies, became class officer, played basketball and soccer, and volunteered in her community. “My friends thought I was crazy to work so hard when I wouldn’t be able to go to college anyway, and my parents, who speak only Spanish, didn’t really understand what I was trying to do.”

An exceptional young scholar, Senia ranked fifth in her high school graduating class. “I learned that if you really, really want something, you can achieve it.” After showing her family that she could attend WSU with the generous support of the University’s friends and donors, they were behind her 100 percent.

*“I learned that if you really,
really want something,
you can achieve it.”*

—Senia Farias

By the time Senia, now a junior, graduates with a degree in Spanish and a minor in international business, her entire education will have been covered by a combination of merit- and need-based scholarships.

“My parents are so proud—they tell everyone what I’m doing here,” Senia says. Discussions at home also have changed; Senia’s parents now encourage their younger children to be active in school and the community.

“I’m grateful for my education, but it isn’t just about me,” Senia says. She visits Latino high school students around the state to talk with them about the scholarship opportunities at WSU. “I tell them that they can have goals, and that if they work hard, there are these amazing people out there who are willing to believe in them and help them to achieve their dreams.”

Investment Performance

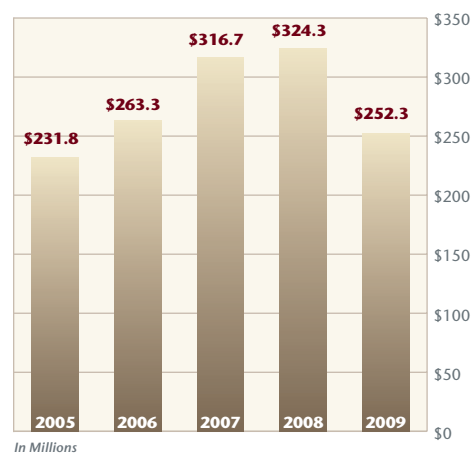

For the period of July 1, 2008, to June 30, 2009, the endowment portfolio produced a total return of -21.1 percent. Additions to the endowment fund for this fiscal year totaled $13,918,140 during this period. $18,569,688 was distributed from the endowment in support of programs at Washington State University. During the last 10 years, the endowment has grown from $166.9 million to more than $252.3 million as of June 30, 2009.

Endowment Investment Strategy

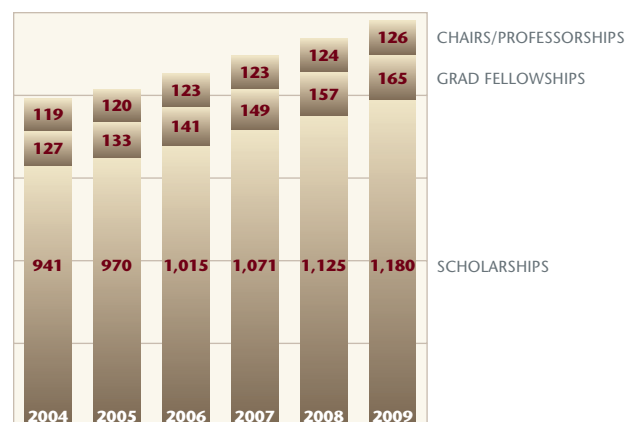

The investment objectives of the WSU Foundation Endowment Fund reflect its long-term nature. It is recognized that the desire to grow endowment gifts and to produce a large, stable, and predictable payout stream involves tradeoffs that must be balanced in establishing the investment and spending policies. Considerations that shape the fund's objectives are outlined here:

- Produce a relatively predictable and stable payout stream each year.
- Maintain purchasing power of the assets over the investment horizon.
- Balance the support of present and future generations of students and faculty.

In accordance with the WSU Foundation's bylaws, the WSU Foundation Investment Committee is responsible for investments, reinvestments, and general management of the endowment. The committee establishes policies for investing capital, monitoring and reviewing investment performance, establishing appropriate benchmarks, and managing the investments.

DISCLOSURE OF FEES

The WSU Foundation imposes small fees on certain forms of gifts. The purposes of these fees vary and fees are not charged on all types of gifts. Some fees are charged to recoup specific charges by third-party vendors per contract for various services. Others are designated to recoup expenses incurred by the Foundation during the ordinary course of business. A portion of these fees also help to create a revenue stream to support some Foundation fund-raising activities. All fees are subject to change without notice.

Annually, a 1.5 percent advancement fee is charged to the Foundation endowment. This fee is paid out quarterly and is calculated based on the 36-month rolling average of the endowment's market value. Other costs associated with the endowment include investment management fees, custodial costs, and consulting expenses. All performance figures of the Washington State University Foundation endowment are net expenses.

For more information about fees, visit wsufoundation.wsu.edu/about/management-policies.html or call the Foundation at 800-GIV-2-WSU (448-2978).

Legacy Associates

Formerly the Century II Club, the Legacy Associates are those individuals who have included Washington State University in their estate plans, leaving a legacy for future generations. Estate gifts have a tremendous impact on the University, representing more than one-third of the total $252.3 million endowment, which provides a stable and perpetual source of support for students, faculty, and programs at WSU.

These thoughtful gifts come to the University in a number of ways, including bequests through Wills or Living Trusts, naming the WSU Foundation as a beneficiary of life insurance or retirement plans, or through other planned giving arrangements such as charitable remainder trusts or charitable gift annuities.

Endowments

At the end of fiscal year 2009, the number of endowed funds for Washington State University reached 1,775. These funds provide tremendous annual support for student scholarships, distinguished professorships and chairs, graduate fellowships, and numerous other academic and research programs at WSU.

An endowment establishes a permanent fund that is prudently invested to provide ongoing annual support to the program or purpose specified by the donor. Donors may contribute to any of WSU's endowed funds or create a new fund for a specific purpose. The minimum contribution for establishing an endowed fund is $25,000, which may be contributed over a period of time. WSU's endowments range in value from $25,000 to more than $3 million.

When an endowed fund is established, it is named according to the donor's wishes. Many donors choose to name endowed funds to reflect a lasting legacy in their names or in the name of someone they wish to honor.

The entire WSU family salutes all of the generous individuals and organizations whose lasting influence will be felt through their establishment of or contribution to endowed funds. Listed in alphabetical order, the following endowments were established on or before June 30, 2009.
